THE ANNUAL STAFF OF THE SENIOR CLASS
PRESENTS

THE 1948 HOLLY HAWK

EDITOR'S NOTE

DEAR FELLOW STUDENTS,

Here it is—that 1948 HOLLY HAWK, and just for you! We hope it is exactly what you wanted.

My staff and I have really had fun these past four months. After your fine cooperation, we think you should have a wonderful time, too. So take your annual and look from cover to cover.

Your 1948 HOLLY HAWK wants to keep alive all those memories of Mount Holly High. Won't you let it?

DEDICATION

The Senior Class of 1948 proudly dedicate our yearbook to the beloved B. Riley Fowler, teacher of agriculture at Mount Holly High School.

Mr. Fowler is a man of many characteristics. A wide assortment of interests, ranging from photography to aviation, makes him a man of great versatility. His many activities are overshadowed only by his devotion to Mount Holly High and its students. Few teachers have held the respect and esteem of their pupils, that have been Mr. Fowler's. Therefore, it is fitting that, we, the Senior Class of Mount Holly High, should singularize this man, as a lasting tribute to one whom we all love.

CLASS HISTORY

Poets are fond of referring to life as a great sea or ocean.

Very well. Then what are the rivers that supply the sea but the colleges of the country? And tracing the colleges back toward their sources we find each one originating in the junction of the little streamlets issuing from the schools of the land.

Our own class history indicates such a riverlet, one that has flowed steadily along until it has reached the meeting place appointed by the course of study. It may be traced down through the classes to a certain day in September 1936 when we presented ourselves at the rooms of Miss McFee and Miss McCormick. We knew not what the years to come held in store for us.

As the stream expanded we had emerged into the second grade under the guidance of Miss Goldie Kale and Miss Ida Rankin.

Each year the course of our riverlet changed and we found ourselves flowing to a more prosperous future.

The realization of school activities came to us in the sixth grade. Our first basketball tournament was held and some of our boys went out for football and other sports. This attitude stayed with us until the night to which we had been looking forward for so long a time: the night we graduated from Junior High to Senior High.

As freshmen our class was increased by a number of students coming down from Lucia. Our leaders were Mrs. Hill and Miss Montgomery. An honor was bestowed upon six of our students. They were chosen Beta Club members. This was the first time that freshmen had been chosen as members.

Having mastered (we thought) the school, we reentered the next year under the leadership of Miss Lipscomb and Mr. Sigmon. By the time we had a party in the bee hive, we knew full well that we had much more to learn at dear old Mount Holly High.

With Miss Norris and Miss Lipscomb as our sponsors, we found ourselves the next year following the tradition of jolly juniors with vague contacts of the dignity before us for the coming year. Our ingenuity blossomed with the inauguration of the first annual Harvest Festival.

After many months of hard work came the long-awaited Junior-Senior Banquet at The Ship-Ahoy in Charlotte.

By the time we became seniors, the cost of broadening our knowledge had narrowed our number to forty-seven, under the guidance of Miss Norris and Mr. Fowler.

This year our minds have become more mature, and we are seriously thinking about entering the turbulent ocean of life. At the first of the year some of us had not fully decided which boat we would take; but whatever our destination we are determined to "strive for that which is honorable, beautiful, and high."

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the Senior Class of Mount Holly High, being of sound and disposing mind and memory and about to enter into a new phase of our lives do hereby make, and declare the following as our last will and testament:

First; to our Superintendent, Principal, and our beloved teachers we return all the unsolicited advice, information, and reproofs which shall at the time of our departure be in, upon or about our minds and memories, feeling that anything given away so freely and abundantly must be of little value and not worth retaining in our minds and memories.

Anita Bailes wills her ability to get out of third period study hall to Patsy Thomas.

Billie Carter leaves to Barbara Davenport her typing technique hoping that she can use it to an advantage.

To Frances Hollar, Sally Clark bequeaths her artistic ability and her place on poster committees.

Betty Jean Gaddy wills to Jack Hinkle her quiet and timid manner.

Geneva Hager leaves to Eunice Arrants her well-groomed hair.

To Slim Williams, Joan Howard wills her place on refreshment committees.

Margaret Jackson bequeaths to Dewitt Beatty her petite ways.

Vertie Pearl Loftin wills here love for athletics to Ruth Campbell.

To Jo Ann Fuller and Perk Kale, Emily Luckey leaves her nice, quiet disposition.

Billie Jean Mattox bequeaths to Margaret Jones her ability to get a man.

Naomi Nixon wills her secretarial ability to Barbara Derr.

Bessie Presslar leaves her love and friendship for her classmates to Dorothy Clemmer.

Pearl Robinson bequeaths to Betty Jane Stroupe her dark, dashing eyes.

Betty Jo Sisk wills her tremendous height to Rachel Smith.

To Rachel Wilson, Dolores Ward leaves her position as office worker and her delight in interrupting classes.

Sarah Wilson wills to William Luckey her argumentative tendencies and her speaking ability.

Jean York bequeaths her ability to work around Mr. Church to Peggy Stack.

Max Beckham leaves to Wells McConnell his shyness and timidness, realizing his desperate need for it.

Bill Caston wills his stuttering to Hugh Kistler.

As Ernest Cauthen always makes it a point to be on time, he wishes to leave to Don Fox an alarm clock in order that Don may carry on where he left off.

Norman Cox bequeaths to Jack Loftin his championship as heavyweight boxer.

John Frank Dameron wills his love for aggravating and teasing the girls to Don Putnam and Ralph Edwards.

To Jack Lawing, Wilbern Davis wills his left jab so he can use it in his next fight with Billie Sborn.

Tommy Everhart wills to James Overcash his studious manner.

Thomas Franklin leaves to Henry Smith his ability to start fights at the Fruit Basket.

To James McManus, Bobby Gabriel bequeaths his good looks and ways with the girls.

Paul Green leaves the icks he gets from Mr. Fowler to Charles Helms.

Robert Hall wills to Mason Carver his good looks.

Sonny Hall leaves his ability to build boats to Perry Spittle.

To Wayne Wallace, A. C. Hollar bequeaths his sly and clever manner of getting away with a lot of mischief in Miss Lipscomb's room.

Clyde Howie wills his excellent grades in English to Don Fortner.

Jack Jolly leaves to Joe Abernathy his valuable position on the football team.

To Jim Putnam, David Loftin bequeaths his love and admiration for all girls.

Bill Loftin wills his best and most eloquent speaking voice to Milton Craig, Jr. in the hope that he will combine it with his already humorous line and charm many an audience.

So that Betty Craig can take sunbaths in the winter as well as in the summer, Bill McClain leaves her a sunlamp.

Melvin McDaniel wills to Richard Lawing his comical giggles.

To Frankie Cloninger and Herman Pressley, Demarcus Nantz wills his position as chief soda jerker.

Frank Rankin leaves his well-rounded and well-developed personality to Eugene Ellington.

Bobby Rhyne bequeaths to Nottie Jefferson his ability to get along in French.

Yates Springs wills his love for football to Boyd Lawing.

Pete Stack leaves his ability to stay in school an extra year to play football to Bill Painter.

Lee Talton bequeaths to Eugene Luckey his technique of one-arm driving.

Charles Taylor wills his high averages in all his subjects to Henry Smith.

Jim White leaves to Mike McIntosh the ever perfect way in which his hair stays in place.

Bob White bequeaths his ability to work algebra problems to Billie McKinney.

To Bunky Carpenter, Tommy Whitesides leaves his bus.

Ralph Wilson wills the good looking girls in Cramerton to John Jolly.

Pete Williams bequeaths to Harrill Black his love for racing.

We make, constitute, and appoint our beloved sponsors, Helen L. Norris and B. Riley Fowler, to be executrix and executor of this our last will and testament.

In Witness Whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names and affixed our seal this the 22nd day of January, A.D. 1948.

DOLORES WARD AND BILL MCCLAIN

CLASS PROPHECY

A great and worthy task the prophet has, but so unrewarding; for, though prophecy is permissible, it usually is erroneous. With this fact in mind we swing wide the door of the future, and take a glance at what the Senior Class of 1948 have made of their lives.

Established in a flourishing business in the little city of Belmont, we see Lee Talton and Tommy Whitesides, the owners of the most modern electric repairing and appliance company. They will fix milady's lights anytime, but they give special attention to night calls.

Then we find Ralph Wilson, distinguished graduate of Wake Forest College, as technical engineer on the new super construction bridge over Dutchman's Creek. Well, anything would be better than its present condition.

What's this we see? A boxing ring? Oh, of course, and the blond fellow in the middle is Champ Wilbern Davis receiving just one more trophy to add to his crowded shelf.

This brings us right up to the subject of kitchen shelves. Here we see the happy young housewife Pearl Robinson, busily stirring up a delicious little meal for Ernest Cauthen, who has just come in from a grueling day supervising his new printing company.

All of a sudden we hear great shouting and praise. We see that it is Jack Jolly and Yates Springs, our professional football stars, that the crowd is clamoring for.

Pete Williams, the charming and popular public accountant, has as his assistants in budgeting and balancing, Demarcus Nantz, who charms all the women with his good looks, and Charlie Taylor, who courts them.

Dolores Ward is the efficient secretary of a large business firm in Gastonia, but we do not know whether she is an asset or a liability; for, she has distracted the minds of all the men on the floor from their business.

After finishing from State College, Tommy Everhart will come back and revolutionize the Agricultural practices of the County with his theories on gentlemen farming.

We see A. C. Hollar living the life of ease, holding classes on the art of "How to Shorten a Teacher's Patience," or "Ten Easy Ways to Be Expelled."

Vertie Pearl Loftin has made a success as a Physical Education Instructor in a near-by town.

Armed with her charming smile, Billie Carter has won her way to the top by her pleasant manner, and is head buyer of a large department store.

Melvin McDaniel has set up an information bureau, the motto of which is, "Ask anything. We guarantee an answer." Since he asked so many questions in high school, it is your turn now to ask him.

What is this? All the young crowd is heading for John Frank Dameron's Soda Shop. He knows who spends the money, and he knows his sweets.

Tentatively we visualize Frank Rankin as a great and noble brain surgeon with a hospital named in his honor; but knowing him, he is probably burning the midnight oil on some other great project in oratory or music.

Clyde Howie will undoubtedly take up politics with his gift of gab.

After years of study and training Sarah Wilson is reforming all the heathens in South America as well as the politics of our own country.

Max Beckham and Bill Caston, having organized a musical group called "The Hedge Jumpers" with petite Margaret Jackson as their vocalist, have taken over all the time formerly monopolized by "The Briarhoppers" on WBT.

Bobby Gabriel felt he just had to go to Paris; so he obtained a job as foreign correspondent to the Mount Holly News. He is now getting up-to-the-minute information on French "affairs."

Betty Jean Gaddy with her quiet manner is completely capturing the affections of the children of the Orthopedic Hospital.

With an eye to the world of busy men and women who are always in a hurry, Bobby Rhvne and Norman Cox have opened a helicopter taxi service. Their slogan is "We land anywhere on a dime for five dollars."

One of the busy people scurrying about is Anita Bales, a lady politician. Her platform is, "A man for every woman." She is the efficient manager of the whole party.

Geneva Hager and Betty Jo Sisk have opened a beauty salon and charm school in Hollywood, where they cater only to select clientele.

Robert Hall, because he is so small and quiet, has made a success of being a private detective. We bet he could tell you who shot John.

Going on, we find that Naomi Nixon, who had a fondness for commercial subjects, has become a highly qualified commercial teacher.

All will be hearing about, and possibly seeing, the new Broadway dancing sensation, Joan Howard, who thrills the crowds with her interpretation of "Young Love."

Bill Loftin has become an important criminal lawyer, and may soon be on his way to Washington where he will walk off with top honors in that field.

Next we see David Loftin, content with his position of football coach and physical education instructor.

Bill McClain, having had early experience in mechanics—well after all a car is a car—now owns and operates his own garage and gas station.

Jim White and Thomas Franklin, quiet, unassuming young fellows, have astounded the world of science with a drug especially made to combat "School Daze."

Emily Luckey will sell the stories of her loves to a famous magazine, and then live handsomely off the profits.

We find Pete Stack, peacefully resting by the fire after a hard day of chasing licenseless hunters. Since he is chief game warden in the Virginia Mountains, he can afford to.

Paul Green, realizing his thinness to be an asset, lost a few more pounds, then joined the circus as the world's thinnest man.

Bessie Presslar is an excellent Home Economics Instructor in an accredited school.

While working in his shoe store, genial Bob White never loses his temper, even if the ladies try them all without buying any. The customer is always right, you know.

Influenced for so many years by her "other home," the school, Jean York decided to make it a permanent proposition, and is now a teacher of higher mathematics.

This brings us to the end of the role of the illustrious seniors of nineteen hundred and forty-eight. We close the door of mysterious doubts and fears, hopes and weaknesses, joys and sorrows and leave you with the visions of greatness and grandeur that this class of '48 will attain.

P. S. Our mystic prophet, Sally Clark, may be found at the door of the Art Museum in New York, welcoming guests to another of her lovely art exhibits.

I WISH YOU WELL

When these happy days have passed,
And friend and friend have parted,
When you begin your way at last,
Upon the roads the Greats have started,
I wish you well.

No matter where your steps may lead,
And though they sometimes falter,
May God's love smile on every deed,
For though your life may alter,
I wish you well.

Whether you have wealth or fame,
Whether you be great or small,
If you contribute but one small thing,
And thus you benefit us all,
I wish you well.

HERE AND THERE

ALMA MATER

Fame to the name of Mount Holly High
The finest high school in the land.
And her might we will praise
'Til the end of our days,
She's our Alma Mater grand.
Sing while you cling to Mount Holly High;
May her memories never die
Loyal sons we will be 'til eternity.
Hail to thee, Mount Holly High.

Power to You, Class of '48

We're proud of you . . .

Proud, too, of the chance to serve a new generation of young Piedmont citizens.

Our best to you as you move forward to make your own place in our free economy . . . where your own will and effort are the measures of achievement.
